

Fun and History in the Ocoee Gorge and the Copper Basin

Table of Contents

Getting Around: Eight Maps of the Ocoee Gorge with Interesting Locations Noted

The Ocoee Gorge and River: *Made by Nature but Managed by Man

Introduction: The Ocoee Gorge

Native Americans and Early Settlers

The Road, From Dirt to Pavement, 1853 to Today

The Kimsey Highway

Early Copper Haulers

The Era of Hydroelectric Power, 1910 to the 1940s

    Parksville Dam (#1) and Lake (1909)

    The Flume Line & Power House #2

    Rebuilding the Flume, 1976-1983

    Caney Creek, J. Ensley, V. Ralston

    Power House # 3, Dam, Lake and Tunnel. 1942

Cherokee National Forest, (Established 1911-1929)

The Cohutta and Big Frog Wilderness Areas, 1975

Rafting, A Growth Industry, 1977

The Ocoee Scenic Byways Designation, 1992

    USFS Highway 77 and Chilhowee Mountain

    Reliance and the Hiwassee River:

        A worthwhile side trip

Ocoee White Water Center and the 1996 Olympics

The Future of the Ocoee Gorge

Geology of the Gorge and the Copper Basin

The Copper Basin: *Red Hills and Copper Mining are All but Gone

Copper Mining, A History

Unseen Today, Mining Once Dominated the Copper Basin (Map)

Yes Sir, I Mined That Copper: Early Mining

A Day in the Life of a Miner: 1960s to 1980s

Smelter Hill, Buzzard's Roost and Company Stores:

Life in a mining community

Copper Basin Towns, McCaysville, GA,

Copperhill and Ducktown, TN

Fifty Square Miles of Bare Red Hills:

The Copper Basin from the 1860s to the 1960s

Glen Springs Holding:

Bringing Healing to a Poisoned Landscape

The Ducktown Basin Museum, Ducktown, TN

Hiwassee Shaft, Ducktown, TN

Fascinating Festivals and Fun

The GA/TN Blue Line

Ramp Tramps & Festivals

Pickin in the Park

Miner's Days and Other Festivals

Web Resources for more fun